

ONE BUSY DAY WITH MRS. FRIEDLANDER.

How She Dines on Uncooked Foods—Her Work in the Women's Clubs.

It has been my privilege to spend a day with Mrs. Friedlander. Mrs. Friedlander, you will remember, is the fashionable clubwoman mentioned in yesterday's Evening World who lives entirely on uncooked food.

I expected to enjoy my day with Mrs. Friedlander, but I kept my opinions to myself regarding her bill of fare. It was not so plain to me that I would enjoy that.

Mrs. Friedlander rises at 7 o'clock. Before she commenced her raw food diet she used to get up at 8 or 9 o'clock. Her energy is such that she never sleeps later than 7 o'clock.

"I have my cold bath just after rising," said Mrs. Friedlander, "and I believe every woman ought to take one. A hot bath weakens, but a cold bath is a splendid tonic, and the only sort of tonic I take."

"But," I asked, "I have heard that a cold bath is too great a shock to one's nervous system, unless one is in the best of health."

Mrs. Friedlander stopped short in arranging the roses that her friend had just sent up, and laughed merrily.

"But, my dear, my dear," she said, "can't you understand that we people who eat and live properly never know the meaning of 'nerves' and such things?"

Again I was sceptical.

"And you never are nervous?" I asked, "for haven't a headache once in a while—just a teeny bit of a headache?"

"Never!" said Mrs. Friedlander. "I admit that before I commenced this treatment I was tired all the time and sick with indigestion and no one knows what that is all over now."

"And you never eat of a course dinner or hot rolls for breakfast or chocolate for luncheon?" There was malice in this question. I watched Mrs. Friedlander narrowly to try if possible to detect a weakening of principle. There was no weakening.

"Why, my dear," said that charming woman, "when you once make up your mind to try this diet and give it a fair trial all unnatural craving disappears. They repel rather than tempt you."

How About Bonbons?

"And if I were to take up this thing—would it make any difference about bonbons?"

"Do you mean would you get over wanting bonbons?"

"I do," said Mrs. Friedlander. "I would never care to touch them. And Mrs. Friedlander turned again to her roses, fully satisfied that she had driven in a nail hard."

For the present I think I'll be careful not to give the "raw food diet" a very fair trial.

"How about breakfast?" I finally asked. Having come to spend the day with Mrs. Friedlander and particularly to try her new diet, I had omitted my morning meal.

"Oh, breakfast? Are you hungry?" This in a decidedly surprised tone of voice.

"Not very," I answered, as gracefully as I could.

"You see," Mrs. Friedlander went on, "we who live on the raw food are so well supplied with vitamins that we really require no meals a day. That is all I ever eat. And I am scarcely ever hungry. It does away with all unnatural craving."

"Tell me, somebody, is it unnatural to eat three meals a day?"

"Yes," said Mrs. Friedlander. "I have put up with my breakfast and pretended to enjoy it."

"So I went without my breakfast and pretended to enjoy it."

"Yes," said Mrs. Friedlander. "I have put up with my breakfast and pretended to enjoy it."

DEATH HAS PIT TO SLEEP THE HYPNOTIST DONATO.

Ex-Butcher Who Had Tried His Glittering, Hypnotic Eye on Kings

New York Heard Him Called Fraud Ten Years Ago.

Lucille, formerly a butcher, once ranked among the world's greatest hypnotists, has met no greater than he at the art of putting to sleep.

He is dead in a lunatic asylum near Paris.

Donato gave the name of "fascination" to the process of mesmerism. When he came to New York, in May, 1890, to give demonstrations in Chatterbox Hall, he announced himself as "the Parisian experimental fascinationist."

He is remembered here as a short, stout, red-faced and round-faced man, not twining in appearance, but certainly possessed of the glittering eye which should precede any hypnotic practitioner of a mystic art.

Donato's method in selecting his subjects was peculiar. Having invited volunteers from the audience, he would put them to sleep by the use of his "fascination" eye.

He was a man of quick, impetuous movements, nervous to a degree and always impatient for success. He was first initiated into mesmerism by the Baroness de Baudouin in 1875, and he had been practicing it ever since.

He had suggested, even before his American visit, the use of mesmerism in surgery in place of anesthetics, and he had been practicing it ever since.

BOER LEADER REPORTED DEAD

Gen. Schalk-Burger, President Kruger's Deputy, Hit in Battle.

CAPE TOWN, Nov. 21.—Gen. Schalk-Burger, who was the acting President of the Transvaal after "Oom Paul" Kruger's death, is reported to have been killed in the battle of Johannesburg.

When Kruger, crowned into Portuguese territory, Schalk-Burger assuming the leadership of the Boers and gathering the scattered forces directed towards the city of Johannesburg.

He had been active in the field during the entire war and with Gen. Louart successfully repulsed the British General Buller's advance and in the early stage of that struggle drove Buller's forces back across the Tugela.

Gen. Schalk-Burger was wounded more than once and recently was hit by a bullet. He continued active while suffering from the wound.

It was from Johannesburg, where most of the fighting in the Transvaal is now going on, that he came from. Gen. Schalk-Burger was born in that district and attained distinction when a young man. He had been a candidate for the Presidency of the Boer Republic before the war and sought the Presidency of the Volksraad. Known as a fighter, winning his first spurs in the war with Great Britain in 1881.

He was a full colonel before the end of that war. His advance after that was rapid.

CRUEL METHODS

Of Treating Piles and Rectal Diseases.

The old method of treating piles by the knife, by ligature or dilatation, besides causing intense pain and frequently collapse and death is now known to be worse than useless as far as actually curing the trouble is concerned.

Disarrangement of the liver, and other internal organs as well as constipation often cause piles and it is a mistake to treat it as a purely local disease; this is the reason why knives and instruments have so little effect, and the widespread success of the Pyramid Pile Cure has demonstrated it.

The Pyramid Pile Cure is not a salve nor ointment but is a suppository form, which is applied at night, absorbed into the sensitive rectal membrane and acts both as a local and constitutional treatment and in cases of many years standing has made thousands of permanent cures.

Many pile sufferers who have undergone surgical operations without relief or cure have been surprised by results from a few weeks' treatment with the Pyramid suppositories.

The relief from pain is so immediate that patients sometimes imagine that the Pyramid contains opiates or cocaine, but such is not the case—it is guaranteed absolutely free from any injurious drug.

The cure is the result of the healing oils and astringent properties of the remedy which cause the little tumors and congested blood vessels to contract and a natural circulation is established.

All druggists sell the Pyramid Pile Cure at 50 cents for full sized package.

A little book on cause and cure of pile mailed free by addressing Pyramid Pile Co., Marshall, Mich.
